“ Education is not a destination, it's a journey that never ends”

Education, the term itself feels so complete and weighted but it's actually a beautiful journey. A beautiful journey which takes one through the highs and lows of life. Education, the nine letters can make anyone's life or break it. It is not a destination which one needs to reach and forget about it as a beautiful memory. It is actually a life long process where it doesn't seem to end at any cost, if one is willing to go along.

Education is a never ending journey which starts from birth and ends with one's death. Education is more of a process which lets one learn about life ,it's various aspects not specifically the subjects as per se. It's not History, Geography, Mathematics it's about the whole learning process where one is learning, be it anyway. A person is illiterate, less knowledgeable about subjects of any particular stream but that person can be quite educated in terms of living a life. Education and Literacy has a fine line between them. A person who has gone through the general process of education formed by the education board of the government of any country but education can be achieved by anyone and everyone. A person might not be literate but can definitely be educated if he/ she has the knowledge about the said. Students at a younger age think once college gets over they are free from the burden of studies, but most definitely not. Education is basically knowledge which you need about everything in the world. One mustn't view them within the boundaries of books or schools but beyond them. That's why it is said there is no age for learning or no age to stop it. Until you're alive on this planet you learn each day. Without basic knowledge about anything you can't go ahead.

However,having said that one can severely be influenced by some personas in the education system or the areas. One can have a role model who is a big influential body of the education system or even a teacher. But that definitely doesn't assure one that education has ceased to only books and schools. Knowledge is regarded as one of the most important ideas of life. And it is very rightly said as they say little knowledge is very dangerous. So one needs to be at least educated enough to sustain in the world and no harm can reach the person. One should always be inquisitive in life, the want should be always there to know about things. Professors,teachers can instill part of knowledge in oneself, but not everything. Higher learning can happen only if one is ready to face the world and its questions. Questions can lead to new ideas and also solutions.

Education is a process which you need in every step no matter what profession or part of life you're living. Be it a farmer, engineer, doctor or a writer, education is must for all and you need it at every step.
